COLORADO

Denver Southern

PUEBLO, April 15.—The survey of the Denver Southern railroad was yesterday completed to a point on the Fountain just east of the city and the engineers are now awaiting orders from headquarters.

CANNEL COAL

A six foot vein of as fine cannel coal as there is in the United States has been discovered by two gentlemen named Narman and Beal within ten miles of the city. Several handsome specimens are on exhibition in the city.

LAUGHING AT IT.

The Chieftain says the whole town is laughing at the wild project of the Denver and New Orleans railroad so ostentatiously announced in the eastern papers. There are not two hundred people on its whole route from Denver to the Arkansas which runs along the divide of dry plains stripped already of what little timber it once had.

As the Denver & Rio Grande railroad company is laying a third rail from Pueblo to Denver, the new company has not even an object in the way of forming a connection south of the Arkansas. This road as they say in France, is in the air.

Captured Thieves

PUEBLO, Col., April 15.—Two thieves were arrested here yesterday on a warrant from the sheriff of El Paso county. They had stolen, on Monday, from a man named Dixon, near Colorado Springs, a Winchester carbine, about forty pounds of honey and a side of bacon. They were driving a fine span of horses attached to a covered wagon, at the time of their arrest. The outfit is valued at between five and six hundred dollars, and it is believed by the authorities that this also is stolen property.

Many Passengers

PUEBLO, April 15.—To day's trains brought in 265 passengers, 152 of whom stopped in Pueblo. The hotels and boarding houses are crowded to overflowing.

Board of Equalization

DENVER, April 15.—The state board of equalization to-day placed the assessment of railroad property at $11,655,082.55.

Moody and Sankey

DENVER, April 15.—Moody and Sankey commenced their series of meetings here to day at the Central Presbyterian church.

GENERAL NEWS.

Grant Arrives

CITY OF MEXICO, via New Orleans, April 15.—General Grant and Romero have arrived. The movements of the former are regarded with apprehension. The latter is in bad odor with the president. There was no reception whatever.

ANOTHER CONCESSION.

The incorporators have transferred the franchise for the railroad from Matagorda to Monterey to Palmer & Sullivan, and the contract for the construction of the road is made.

Ex-Governor Pacheco and Colonel Lewis, of California, are in the city in the interest of the [illegible] railroad.

Washington News

[illegible] REPORT.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Report of April [illegible] the department of agriculture shows an increase of only [illegible] per cent in [illegible] Kansas and [illegible] New York and Pennsylvania [illegible] same as last year; Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia each report some deterioration owing to the prevalence of snow at the [illegible]. The condition of the crop [illegible] In a large portion of the principal wheat growing states [illegible] the average of last year [illegible] freezing and thawing during [illegible] of all weather during the winter.

The lack of the [illegible] to [illegible] standing merely [illegible] presented [illegible] by the [illegible] very winter has come out in fair health though reported very low in Denver. [illegible] malignant [illegible] prevailing disease is reported over [illegible] the country. [illegible] losses from cold and exposure [illegible] reported from the plains of the far west.

OPPOSITION TO MAHONE.

A delegation of Virginia republicans headed by Congressman Jorgensen, called on the president to-day and begged him not to recognize Mahone or to encourage any republican coalition with him. Representative Jorgensen was the principal speaker, and he assured the president that Virginia republicans will not form any coalition with Mahone. He says the republicans want a straight out republican ticket. Any attempt to force an alliance with Mahone will be fatal to the party. A straight republican convention will be held in ninety days to nominate a straight republican ticket for state officers in Virginia. It was intended to nominate General Wyckham for governor, but business prevented him from running, and the present purpose is to nominate Colonel Mosby, now consul at Hong Kong. Instead of appointing more readjusters, the delegation urged the president to remove those now holding office. The president said he would, thoroughly consider the question, and act for the best good of the republican party. Jorgensen thinks they have stopped any chance of affiliation with Mahone.

POSITION TO MAKE MAHONE FIGHT.

CHICAGO, April 15.—The Journal's Washington special says, Influential democrats threaten to bring out in debate in the senate next week Mahone's record of personal quarrels with democrats in Virginia, and the manner in which he escaped fighting a duel with General Bradley Johnson, of Maryland. They allege that evidence will be submitted showing that Mahone is brave only in words, and while giving just cause for attack, has escaped fighting a duel by questionable means. The drift of talk in democratic quarters to-day indicates a purpose on their part to try and force Mahone into a position where he will be obliged to fight. Up to this time, however, he has dealt blow for blow, and says he doesn't intend to submit to any personal insults.

CABINET MEETING.

The war and navy departments were unrepresented at the cabinet meeting to-day owing to the absence of Secretaries Hunt and Lincoln.

SUPPLIES FOR THE SUFFERERS.

The situation in Dakota was considered and it was decided to authorize at once army rations for two weeks and clothing and supplies.

LEFT TOWN.

Senator Farley left town this morning for a visit to New York City. He will return on Monday.

MINING DECISION.

In the Leadville case of the Compromise lode against the American lode the secretary of the interior has decided that the objection to the prima facie sufficiency of an adverse claim received and filed by the register within the period of publication can't be heard in the department when the party has allowed the thirty days prescribed by law for the commencement of legal proceedings to expire before presenting such objection, and has actually been brought into court upon suit of adverse claimant. In such a case the proceedings for patent will be stayed to await the judgment of the courts and all defenses must be presented to those tribunals expressly authorized by the United States statutes to try the question of the right of possession.

DUTY ON WOOLENS.

A large delegation of manufacturers of woolen goods called upon Assistant Secretary French, of the treasury department, to-day, and expressed a desire to be heard upon the construction of decisions of the supreme court which reduced the duty fifty cents per pound on a large class of woolen fabrics and held that stockings of worsted and cotton are dutiable at thirty five per cent. advalorem under schedule M. which includes several enumerated articles with stockings, and not under schedule L, as new goods at higher rates of duty. The articles of most importance to American manufacturers appear to be knit shirts and drawers and as there is some doubt as to whether these articles are included in the decision referred to the treasury department has directed the collector not to apply a decision to this class of goods until otherwise instructed. The delegation will be heard to-morrow.

WORLD'S FAIR.

CHICAGO, April 15.—The Inter Ocean's Washington special says the conviction is rapidly forcing itself on the people that the world's fair will surely collapse. To-day's meeting of the commission was not held owing to the absence of one member and the [illegible] [illegible] president [illegible] delayed [illegible].

[illegible]

A prominent New Jersey republican [illegible] [illegible] talk with the president [illegible] nomination. He says the president will not [illegible] Robertson [illegible] any [illegible] compromise. The president [illegible] executive [illegible] the nomination [illegible], and the [illegible] at the very beginning of the administration. He [illegible] the president did not want to open any fight, but as it is made he thinks the [illegible] is settled the [illegible]. He says the president is determined to [illegible] gain all the elements of the republican party and will not be forced into that policy. The gentleman says further that he and [illegible] the administration are [illegible] Conkling [illegible] to meet the Robertson nomination in committee [illegible] that he [illegible] make a square fight relying upon the [illegible] him that Conkling will try to get an adverse report on Robertson from the commerce committee, and [illegible] this report to the senate with a speech [illegible]. The [illegible] of the commerce committee are mainly favorable to Robertson's confirmation, but it is probable that a majority will agree to report adversely. The president and cabinet are desirous of having some nominations confirmed and it is generally stated and believed to-night that an executive session will be held about next Tuesday. Postmaster General James goes over to New York to-morrow.

[illegible] SUGGESTIONS.

It is said that when the climax is reached Blaine intends to retire from the cabinet and make capital for himself. The Chicago Times says: The real truth is that General Garfield is already looking feverishly ahead to his re-election, and nearly all his acts are shaped by hopes and fears for his future. It is doubtful if Mr. Blaine himself can remain long in the cabinet unless he secures control. The president now distrusts him, and yet he was taken into the cabinet as his warm, personal friend. If Blaine is not really his friend then the president is without a single supporter in the cabinet. Not long ago General Garfield sent for an unofficial friend to come and see him. This friend he addressed by his first name, as he said: "Blank, I am in a bad box."

"Yes, and I am glad of it, d—n you, was the frank reply. This blunt visitor then went on to say that what the president needed more than anything else was a few friends. His present policy was alienating them all. What he advised him to do was to reorganize his cabinet and put none but Garfield men in it. This advice was respectfully considered but it is not expected that it will be followed. Gen Garfield at the present time is not worrying very much. He is represented as in a buoyant humor, and as one observer put it, is doubtless up to some new Ohio surprise for the country.

SOME NOMINATIONS PREPARED.

Among the nominations ready for the senate are Dr. J. H. Baxter for surgeon general, of Colorado, Daniel McClure, paymaster general, Warren Bateman, of Cincinnati, for director of the treasury, and General Judson Kilpatrick as minister to Chili.

Hanging of the Regicides

ST. PETERSBURG, April 15.—All of the nihilists and the woman, Hilfmann, condemned to death for connection with the czar's assassination, namely, Russakoff, Michaloff, Kibalchitsch, Jeliaboff and Sophia Pieoffsky were hanged at 10 o'clock this morning.

Michaloff's rope broke twice but order was not disturbed. There was an immense concourse of spectators present.

The appeals of Russakoff and Michaloff were submitted to the czar, but he replied that the sentence of the court must be carried out. The condemned were escorted from the fortress to the place of execution by Cossacks and infantry, with drums beating and fifes playing. Detachments of all the regiments of guards in St. Petersburg surrounded the scaffold. All the prisoners received the ministrations of priests, and kissed the cross and each other. They were firm except Russakoff, who fainted at the last moment.

Many thousands of people passed the night at the place of execution in order to obtain a good view. The prisoners were conveyed from the fortress in two carts with their backs to the horses and their hands tied to boards on their breasts bearing the word "Regicide" in large letters. After hanging twenty minutes the bodies were cut down and taken to a cemetery outside the city.

Windfall for the Pacific Mail

NEW YORK, April 15.—A Washington special says the Pacific Mail company is in a fair way to get a windfall under the second contract for carrying the mail. Vessels of heavier tonnage were required, and the Peking and City of Tokio were built for the service. The Peking started on her first trip, and before she got back to San Francisco the law was repealed and the contract annulled. The company claimed their money under the contract for this trip, and it was allowed. While the two big vessels were being built, the smaller ones that had been accepted under the first contract were making their semi-monthly trips, for which they were paid the ocean postage, but had not been accepted for service under the second contract, because they were not of the requisite burthen. It occurred to the company after the repeal of the law to put in a claim for this gratuitous service by the small steamer. The supreme court has decided in their favor on the ground that if the vessels were fit for service under the first contract they were suitable for the second, and the matter has been in the court of claims for adjustment. The attorney general has the case under consideration, and the question is how the company complied with the schedule that was fixed under the second contract. The time fixed for leaving was the 10th of each month and it so happens that none of the former started on that day. The attorney general will decide how near to that time it was necessary to leave to come within the requirements of the law from the government's standpoint. At the time the service was rendered there was a plea put in that they should have part of the subsidy, and the department for this reason paid the ocean postage. The amount paid will be subtracted from the award, which will still probably leave them full a quarter of a million dollars.

Jeff Davis Book

[illegible], April 15.—The [illegible] reviewing Jeff Davis' book, takes conspicuous pains to assure its readers that it [illegible] change [illegible] his mind in regard to any of the questions which involved the country in bitter strife. He is evidently the same incorrigible, unrepentant rebel described by Zach Chandler in his memorable speech made to the senate shortly before his death. Altogether, his book, as a vindication of the principles which animated the confederates, can only be regarded as a dismal failure. For his own reputation it would have been much better had he never written it. He should not [illegible]. This country has had [illegible] enough of the man who led the lost cause.

Stabbed on the Train

CHEYENNE, April 15.—A fatal stabbing affray occurred on a west bound emigrant train this morning near Lone Walt [illegible] Wyoming. A man named Black quarreled with a boy passenger, and Evans Lewis interfered to protect the boy. Black then stabbed Lewis with his knife in the abdomen. Black jumped off the train running across the plains, several passengers engaging in the pursuit. Black will probably be lynched if caught. Lewis is from Dodgeville, Wisconsin, and was bound for Butte, Montana. Physicians say he will die within twenty four hours. He lies in the Cheyenne hospital.

Murder at Laramie

LARAMIE CITY, April 15.—Early this morning Charles Peronnet, a freight conductor on the Laramie division of the Union Pacific railroad, murdered roadmaster C. S. I. Graves. Peronnet called Graves out of the telegraph office at 2:30 this morning and shot him dead. The murderer was arrested and lodged in jail.

Big Cattle Transaction.

ST. LOUIS, April 15.—The Republican's Dallas (Texas) special says. One of the largest cattle transactions ever made has just been closed by Messrs. Hughes, of St Louis, and Simpson of Weatherford, Texas, purchasing the famous, Millett ranch, for $300,000.

Denver might open her new opera house with "Ten nights in a sewer."

One of the colored congressmen from South Carolina in the forty third congress is now a street laborer in Charleston, his old home.

Did Judge Coulter deny in the presence of Judge Belford and Senator Kearney that he ever made the charges which Judge Belford's letter says he did This is the great issue

Senator H S Kearney's letter is queerly understood. To us it raises the question whether it be true or not that Judge Coulter denied in Judge Belford's presence that he ever made the charges which Judge Belford in his letter says he made, Judge Coulter is no longer of interest or importance in the controversy If Kearney's letter is true, then Belford is dishonorable in suppressing important facts

The Mountaineer does not support the scheme for building the hotel In manifesting this opposition it is hardly fair In order to obtain the $100,000 building the citizens of this city are requested to contribute $25,000 in subscriptions, and may have a half interest in the mortgage. The city, as a whole, risks no more than General Palmer. At present most of the real estate in the city is owned by private parties, and it is only fair that they should contribute their share to public improvements

Professor Short of the Denver university, a practical chemist, has made a careful analysis of the Denver water He gives the following results, which are startling

The next thing appearing upon the tables is organic matter, which comes mostly from decaying vegetable matter and is not injurious. Indeed, there may be so much of this organic matter present that it renders the water brownish in color, and still we may not fear any deleterious results

But we find in the Holly water quantities of free ammonia and chlorine This means that there is animal organic matter which is undergoing decomposition This free ammonia may not all be in solution, but in simple combination which can be disengaged by simply heating with sodium carbonate as explained before As the analyses were made as soon as the samples were obtained, the complete decomposition had not taken place, therefore it was necessary to oxodize the albuminoid ammo with permanganate of potash and determine the ammonia. Albumoid ammonia comes directly from the decomposition of animal matter, and more than twenty-five hundredths of one part should not be tolerated in 1,000,000 parts of water.

By the table it will be seen that the water taken from the service pipes contains over fourteen times as much as should be tolerated under any circumstances

THE HOTEL MEETING

The hotel meeting last night was, upon the whole, a success, and the total result gratifying Nearly half the sum required to make the erection of a first-class hotel in this city has been subscribed The exact amount of stock taken is $10,300, and this, we are informed, can be looked upon as at least an assurance of $12,000 as many of those who have subscribed will increase their subscriptions, should such an increase be needed. Many of the prominent business men of the city were not present last night at the meeting, and these will doubtless see the sound business policy of forwarding the plan now so well advanced The stock itself is a good business investment, to say nothing of the collateral advantages which would result from the building of a good hotel There is an absolute loss to every business man in town for each day that goes by without a good hotel The committee, which was appointed last evening to take subscriptions to the stock will, we are confident, meet with success in their efforts, and their success will be a cause of congratulation to every citizen of Colorado Springs who has the town's business prosperity at heart

NEGLECTED HELPS OF COMMERCE

The question of whether the United States shall have control or at least be largely interested in the trade of South America, China and Mexico is constantly discussed in the leading newspapers and periodicals and hardly an important dinner takes place that there are not opinions expressed and advice tendered by half a dozen well informed and enthusiastic men At a late dinner the Mexican minister drew a most entertaining picture of his republic and could see no reason why her resources could not be commanded by American merchants he was sanguine enough to believe that to Mexico the Americans could purchase all the tropical productions which they might desire or need, and he looked over all obstacles to the time when all we of this country had to perform was to export goods to foreign ports and import foreign articles

But there are very many obstacles really to be overcome It is necessary that the United States government should lend important aid to the establishment of commercial relations with foreign countries Nearly all treaties now formed are commercial England is particularly careful about framing her treaties so as to bring the greatest advantage to her shipper and merchants and the state department at Washington is at last giving more attention to this most important subject Every consul at present is compelled to furnish the home government with trade tables giving the productions of the several foreign countries and most suitable articles to be sent out from home In this way much important and generally reliable information is gained by those who are merchants and who are looking to distant fields for the consumption of their goods In fact the government seems determined to do all in its power to increase our foreign trade relations

But government aid and congressional support, and the co operation of business men and capitalists, will not bring to the merchants that profitable trade which is particularly wanted It is necessary that the country which it is wished to operate in should be thoroughly known, and its peculiar methods of doing business must be understood or all subsidized steamship lines and most approved terminal facilities will be useless and soon abandoned It is all very well to have the country and the products and the enterprise, but knowledge of the people our merchants will meet, and the particular requirements of the country will be absolutely essential. We may easily establish connections with Mexico or China or Brazil for the purpose of selling our products, but men must be employed who fully understand the markets, who are conversant with the language and who have sound practical knowledge.

And it is here that we find the greatest obstacles. Americans are too anxious to accomplish in a moment that which should take years Let our young men who are not needed in America go to China or Mexico and enter upon duties at first as simple clerks If they then can become possessed of sufficient knowledge they may become correspondents of home firms and by degrees practical merchants themselves It is in this way that England has taken such prominence in the commercial world Her young men, after leaving school or college, and if determined upon a commercial career, enter a foreign house in the humblest positions and gradually become so possessed of the requirements of their adopted country that they know the articles desired, the best packing processes and are able to become leading merchants It is then, not alone capital and enterprise which shall open new fields for the consumption of our goods, hard patient work is necessary and until knowledge is gained, we may subsidize in vain

SATURDAY APRIL [illegible]

Our Times and Old Times

Jan [illegible] (Sp[illegible])

When my mother was going to get a new dress, or gown as it was called then, sixty years ago, the [illegible] to me to [illegible] to cut [illegible] her she was [illegible] and [illegible] six yards [illegible] Five yards was [illegible] on pattern and fifty cents for [illegible] making, and [illegible] dinner for [illegible] What a change from that [illegible] The cloth cost one dollar and the making fifty cents and the dress was worn [illegible] The fashion and pay of the preacher has changed [illegible] The first Methodist preacher in [illegible] town got $100 for one year's salary and if he had a present of a pair of socks he must report it. The second gave her [illegible] wife and got $75. The third [illegible] had a wife and three children, and $[illegible] was added for each child. Bishop [illegible] long in one time got [illegible] Also [illegible] Clough and [illegible] than either. Our old Methodist preacher worked for a living and for souls instead of for reputation and a salary.

I was thinking about the fashions and music [illegible] sixty [illegible] music fifty five years ago. Governor [illegible] and I met at [illegible] on for Thanksgiving, [illegible] he found where he got his wife [illegible] old [illegible] squires uncle to us both. Their house music was, for treble the flax spinning wheel, played or run by one of the girls for the tenor the large spinning wheel played by another girl for bass the old lady whacking away at the old loom all working to make their music profitable and healthy. The fashion of those days was to have a good, healthy family of from eight to ten children all learnt to work for a living. What a change! Instead of a good healthy family now, all up in the morning early to work, we see from one to three pimping children, with a sickly mother not able to take care of two as easily as our mothers would ten, fifty years ago, without a hired girl. The children now must be in fashion lie in bed until eight or nine in the morning, no appetite, little vitality. They play on some kind of instrument, and go to school to be crowded with more kinds of lessons than our old school teachers ever knew. But this is the fashion and pretended improvement of this age.

Perhaps this generation does not look at these things as I do, but I think that health, economy and morality are not improved by getting high wages or a fashionable education. This generation will spend what its fathers have earned. Generally it is watching the pulse of the man who has property, longing for the time to come when it will come in possession of what it has not earned. It is a known fact that the rising generation are spendthrifts. In my travels in different states I see many old hard working men come to want in their old age by their children, to whom they have given up their property, who produce nothing, but consume what others have produced. Old men, keep the key of your corn crib in your own hands while you live! What would this educated generation do for a living if they were thrown back upon their own economy, as their fathers were sixty years ago? or where many now live in new sections of the country by tilling the land—the work God desired men to do? I think the time is near when many of the loose, loafing and tramping class will fall back to tilling the land or starve—or steal, which is getting so fashionable in many places. What a great change in this respect in sixty years! About one-half of the population have to support the other half by tilling the land, for there is no intrinsic value except what comes by digging in the earth.

The Destruction of Trichinæ

Lancet

It is commonly believed that ordinary cooking will destroy trichinæ and render infested meat innoxious. Without doubt, as it has been stated in the daily press, "the encapsuled parasites cannot survive a certain elevation of temperature, and death renders them harmless." It is, however, correct to say that a "complete means of protection is furnished by the heat incidental to cookery." Considerable doubt is thrown on the statement by M. Vacher, of Paris, whose authority is of considerable weight. He affirms that the protection given by cooking is quite illusory, and that in the thorough cooking of an ordinary joint of meat the temperature in the center is not sufficient to insure the destruction of the parasite. He took a leg of pork of moderate size and boiled it thoroughly. A thermometer placed within it at a depth of two inches and a half registered after half an hour's boiling 86 degrees Fahrenheit, after boiling for an hour 118 degrees after an hour and a half 149 degrees, and after two hours and a half, when the the joint was thoroughly cooked, 165 degrees. This temperature M. Vacher maintains is insufficient, and we must remember that at the center, which is still further from the surface than the bulb of the thermometer was placed, the temperature would not be so high. "Trichinæ would escape almost entirely the action of boiling water" in cooking. M. Vacher's note was communicated to the chamber of deputies, and no doubt has influenced the decision of the French government to prohibit entirely the importation of American pork.

Too Much Remorse

From the Galveston News

There had been a feud of long standing between two Galveston darkies. They were continually fighting and quarrelling. Not long since one of them died and to the astonishment of the colored population the other one attended the funeral. After the funeral services were over the Rev. Annanias Bledso of the Blue [illegible] Colored Tabernacle, met the surviving enemy and said, impressively

"I was much pleased to see yer at de [illegible] of yer ole enemy. Hit does credit to de goodness ob yo' heart. Hit [illegible] dat yer don't carry yore present [illegible] beyond de grave [illegible] is [illegible] goodness."

[illegible] change pitcher of the Troy nine who has been practicing pitching under the fifty foot rule all winter says the most effective ball under the new arrangement is the in shoot. He pronounces the out curve is useless.

The Athletics defeat by the Princeton college team was simply a little bit of hard luck. The Athletics, without the services of Fulmer played a strong game throughout, and the powerful nine of the collegians found it very difficult to secure a victory.

The clubs at the close of the season of 1880 ranked as follows in batting and fielding: Providence, Troy, Detroit and Worcester; in fielding, Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Worcester, Troy, Cleveland, Providence and Detroit.

Officially, the salary list of the Providence team is: Ward, pitcher, $1 700 Gross, catcher, $1,500, Start, first base, $1 600, Farrell, second base, $1,400 McClellan, short stop, $1,100, Denny, third base, $900; Houck, field, $700, Hines, field, $1,400, Gilligan, field and catcher, $875, Matthews, change pitcher, $1 100, Baker, change catcher, $900. Total, $13,175

An ordinance has been presented to councils of Detroit to exact a license fee of $5 for each game of base ball played in that city during the year. If the ordinance should pass it would stand but little chance of being carried into effect, for a time at least, as the mayor, who is president of a club, would undoubtedly veto it as an unjust and unnecessary measure.

According to the schedule recently published, the following players proved to be the strongest in their respective positions: Batting, McCormick, p; Sullivan, c; Anson, 1st b; Dunlap, 2nd b, Burns, s. s., Morrissey, 3d b, Dalrymple, l. f; Gore, c f; White, r f. In fielding: Ward, p; T. Sullivan, c; J. Sullivan, 1st b, Force, 2nd b, Wright, s s, Morrissey, 3rd b, O'Rourke, l f, Hines, c. f, Evans, rf. f.

More About Millet's "Angelus"

Paris

Millet's "Angelus," which was sold at the Wilson sale for 160,000 francs, cost, with the five per centum commission, 168,000 francs. Two collectors wished to possess the picture, Messrs. Defoer and Secretan. At the last moment they agreed to have the picture bought by a third party and then to draw lots for it. Fortune favored Mr. Secretan. This gentleman has only recently begun collecting. His fortune, we believe, was acquired in trade. He has just gone to live in the splendid hotel in the Champs Elysees formerly occupied by the ex queen of Spain. Mr. Secretan beats the American millionaires altogether, his patronage of the fine arts is so colossal that one half wonders if it can be durable. It is he who, last year, paid 350,000 francs for the famous Meissonier that figured at the exhibition of 1878. Being somewhat of a bourgeois, Mr. Secretan has ordered a pendant on which Meissonier is at present engaged, and for which the painter will fix his own price. Furthermore, Meissonier having expressed a desire to have a little study which he painted some years ago, Mr. Secretan commissioned the expert, Mr. Petit, to buy the picture if it were possible. Mr. Petit succeeded in buying the picture for 25 000 francs and the next day Meissonier found the picture on his breakfast table with Mr. Secretan's card and compliments. Such princely conduct forces Meissonier to avow that the Vanderbilts are nowhere. But this is not all. About three weeks ago Mr. Secretan bought a lot of six splendid specimens of Theodore Rousseau for the sum of 300 000 francs the six.

One Touch of Nature

A burglar entered a house in which a mother was sitting up with a sick child. [illegible] to him in a whisper, as soon as she could compose herself to speak, "there is nothing of value in this house except that child's life, at least to me, but you may find otherwise. Here, take my keys, search everywhere, take what you want, but speedily and without noise, I implore you." She handed him the keys placed her finger on her lip and pointed to the door. The burglar moved quietly away, then turned and said in a low voice "Is he very sick?" "His life hangs on the continuance of this sleep." "Then he will recover for all the noise I'll make," the robber answered, laying down the keys and noiselessly taking his departure "but absolutely nothing else."

The last named is raised on one side and a little in front and turns down on the other side and in the back. These shapes are to be trimmed and arranged in different ways and modistes will doubtless make so many changes that before long the original shapes will no longer be recognizable. Lace fringe and jet are to be seen on colored and black straw bonnets, combined with flowers. A novelty among the trimmings is a kind of tulle, in the color called "cheveux de la reine," covered with small chenille dots. This is a very soft tissue, and is much more becoming than the shaded trimmings now gaining so much favor.

To-morrow is Easter Sunday

The hotel scheme is taking very definite shape

All the seats for the opening night of the Opera House have been sold

The hens have been running on double shifts to provide the material for Easter dinners.

Kate Claxton will play in this city shortly after the close of Maude Granger's engagement.

The streets and ditches, alleys and backyards are to be cleaned up. Mayor France has said it.

The brakemen of the Denver and Rio Grande are being supplied with silver badges for their hats.

There will be a special communication of El Paso Lodge, No. 13, A. F. & A. M. to-night. Work on the third degree.

Dr. Reynolds, assisted by an expert from the east, was engaged yesterday in putting his croquet ground in order. About this time look out for games that are regular "stem-winders."

The district conference of the Methodist Church South, was in session yesterday in this city. It continues until 2 o'clock to day. Preaching this evening by Dr. C. B. Riddick, of Denver.

Presiding Elder Smith will preach in the M. E. Church South at 11 a. m. Sunday. Sunday-school at 3 p. m. In the evening Dr. Riddick will preach. The public are kindly invited.

By referring to our marriage notices it will be seen that Mr. E. E. Hooker of this city will return to this city a benedict. His many friends will extend to him and his bride the most hearty congratulations.

The El Paso county horticultural society meets this evening at 7½ o'clock, to discuss the subject of ornamental trees and shrubbery. This is something that all should feel an interest in. Meeting at library room.

The following clever translation was made by a student of Colorado college, and reported by the correspondent of the Mountaineer. "And they say that not even this one suffered, and not even any other of the Greeks in this battle suffered in any respect at all, except that a certain one is said to have been hit with an arrow in the left wing. GONE UP A TREE

Durango's Disapproval of Moorman's Little Pastime

Western men have a cool way of stating things, and many of the most forcible and picturesque phases in the language owe their existence to the inventive genius of the frontiersman. Death does not appear so terrible when it is described as "going over the range," but there is a grotesque humor in speaking of a deceased man as having "gone up a flume." These phrases have won a recognition in the cant dialect of the world, and are understood quite as thoroughly as more elegant phraseology. Everybody out west knows what is meant when a "necktie sociable" is spoken of, and no one desires to be the one who dances on nothing at this sociable for the satisfaction of Judge Lynch. These remarks were suggested by the receipt of a postal card yesterday which calmly announces the hanging of a man by saying "Last night he looked up a pine tree." However, the postal card read as follows

DURANGO, April 11, 1881

To the Editor of the Gazette

We had a little necktie sociable here last night. A man named Moorman shot and killed an innocent man night before last just for a little pastime. Last night he looked up a pine tree just in front of the postoffice.

HOTEL MEETING

Talking over the Hotel Scheme and Subscribing for Stock

The meeting for the consideration of the plan for building a first class hotel in this city, which was held in Court House Hall last evening, was fairly attended, and resulted in getting the proposed movement well under way.

Mr. A. Sagendorf was chosen president of the meeting and Mr. I. Taylor secretary. The president after briefly stating the object for which the meeting had been called, suggested that there were gentlemen in the audience who could give further light on the subject. There were loud calls for Dr Solly who responded by giving a brief sketch of the origin of the proposed plan and its existing state of progress. The doctor said that Gen. Palmer had assured to the company that should build the hotel $25,000 in bonds and $25,000 in stock, provided a like sum should be raised by the citizens of Colorado Springs. Dr. Solly explained that there would be no difficulty in raising the $25,000 on bonds, as they could readily be disposed of, and might be counted upon as already taken. The only thing, therefore, remaining to be done was the raising by subscriptions to the stock the sum of 25,000. The Colorado Springs company had given a large plot of ground, facing Pike's Peak avenue, upon which the hotel might be erected. The advantages of this site were referred to, and among them were indicated its proximity to the business part of town and the railroad station. The building would be a sightly object both from the railroad and from the town, and its guests would thus be given the maximum of convenience. The benefits of such a hotel to the community were dwelt upon at some length, and the speaker was warmly applauded as he took his seat.

The Hon. W. S. Jackson having come into the hall during the time while Dr. Solly was speaking was called upon for his opinion upon the subject under discussion. Mr. Jackson spoke earnestly and in an especially convincing manner. He said that men invested their money as a general thing upon a purely business basis and so far as he could see nothing would conduce more to the business interests of Colorado Springs than the project in hand. He referred to the fact that there appeared to be a disposition upon the part of a weekly newspaper, published in this city, to throw cold water on the plan. For his part he could see no reason why there should be other than one view to be taken of the matter. There was no room for cliques and no cause for violent opposition or for that matter for opposition at all. Mr. Jackson's remarks were greeted with applause.

Dr. Anderson, Alderman Walker, Judge Field and Mr. A. L. Lawton were called for and in turn responded in brief speeches all strongly in favor of the proposed plan.

Judge Stewart was asked to make some remarks and replied by saying that he would bring forward just one point which had not been referred to. He said that next fall the question of locating the capital will be voted upon and if Colorado Springs does not bestir herself and build a first class hotel the absence of accommodations will be used as an argument against this city as the seat of government.

The Hon. C. W. Barker, of Manitou, the former landlord of the Manitou house, was called upon by the president to give his opinion as to the probable success of a first-class hotel as a business investment. Mr. Barker said that beyond a doubt the investment would be a good one and would more than pay eight per cent. on the stock. He added that there were several men, to his knowledge, willing to take the hotel at a yearly rental large enough to pay eight per cent. on the capital.

After some further discussion the subscription paper was placed on the president's desk and subscriptions received. Printed slips were distributed through the audience giving a brief resume of the hotel scheme and the wording of the subscription paper. These slips were as follows

THE HOTEL SCHEME.

The plan is to build a hotel to cost $100,000 exclusive of the land. This amount is to be raised by $50,000 in subscriptions and $50,000 in mortgage bonds. The subscriber has the option of taking as much in bonds as in subscriptions so that if there should be a foreclosure, he would be as much interested in the mortgage as in the stock. The subscription paper is as follows

SUBSCRIPTION PAPER

We the undersigned hereby subscribe and agree to pay the sums set opposite our names respectively for the capital stock of The Colorado Springs Hotel Company, (to be hereafter formed) for the purpose of building a first class hotel at Colorado Springs. These subscriptions shall not be binding unless fifty thousand dollars bona fide subscriptions to such capital stock shall be made, of which Gen. William J. Palmer has agreed to take twenty-five thousand, if the whole amount is raised. Each subscriber hereto to have the option to take an amount of the bonds of said company when issued, bearing eight per cent interest equal to his subscription. The Colorado Springs Company agrees to donate free of cost to the company the lot whereon to build the hotel being 300 feet front west of Cascade avenue facing Pike's Peak avenue and 400 feet deep.

The subscriptions hereto to be payable as follows. Twenty five per cent on call after completion of subscriptions and the remainder in installments of twenty five per cent on ten days call, not less than thirty days to intervene between the calls. Dated, Colorado Springs, April 4, 1881.

The subscription list received a number of signatures, and many of those who took stock said they would increase their subscriptions if it should become necessary.

The following named gentlemen were appointed as a committee to take subscriptions for stock. A. L. Lawton, Chas. Hallowell and A. Sagendorf.

DISTRICT COURT

Finishing the Civil Docket and Taking up the Criminal

Court met yesterday, pursuant to adjournment.

The temporary injunction heretofore granted in case No 744, Bradfield vs Davis, was dissolved by the court.

This concluded the civil business and the court proceeded at once to hear and dispose of the criminal cases. The following cases were called

The people vs. G. M. McCartney. The defendant is charged with wilfully and maliciously cutting, breaking and damaging a certain door in a certain house in this city, to which charge the defendant plead "not guilty."

The case of the people vs. Benton, charged with bigamy. Mr. Williams was assigned by the court to defend the accused.

The people vs Bell, charged with larceny, Mr. C. C. Holbrook assigned to defend.

The people vs. R. Davis. Mr. Harrison assigned to defend.

Case No. 696, Barton vs Keener, the demurrer in this case was argued at length by Mr. Harrison for plaintiff, and Mr. Phelps for defendant, and the court took the same under advisement.

The grand jury reported ten bills, eight "true," and two "not true."

The defendant in the case of the people vs Richard Davis, charged with grand larceny, plead not guilty.

In the case of the people vs Hughes the demurrer to plea of former conviction was sustained.

The grand jury made its final report, reporting four true bills, and were discharged from further service.

The case of the people vs R. Davis was called for trial, and after three peremptory challenges being made, the jury was chosen and the prosecuting witness was called to testify on behalf of the people, when defendant's counsel objected to any further evidence on the ground that the indictment introduced in evidence was merely a copy. The court delayed the further proceedings in the case until this morning, when the question will be argued if the original indictment is not found.

In the case of the people vs Benton, charged with bigamy, the defendant's counsel filed a motion to quash the indictment found against him, on the grounds, first, that the indictment was dated December 21, 1881, and second, because the name of his first wife is not mentioned. The motion was overruled as to the second point raised, and the court took the first point under advisement.

In the case of the people vs McCartney the defendant stated that the indictment found against him was also dated December 21, 1881, and the court will decide it together with the former motion to quash.

The case of the people vs. Fullen et al charged with assault with intent to commit murder will probably be tried to day.

The decree was filed in the case of Mack vs Jackson in accordance with ruling of the court.

The court then adjourned until ten o'clock this morning.

Easter Services at Grace Church

The Easter services to morrow (Easter day) in Grace church will be as follows

At St. Paul's mission, Colorado City, there will be the following services. Nine a. m., morning prayer and sermon.

LEADVILLE

Mud. Leadville Mining Company. Hibernia. Denver City. Breece Iron Mine

From the Regular Correspondent of the Gazette

LEADVILLE, April 13. Leadville is floating in a sea of mud. Nearly all this month the weather has been especially nasty and the streets and roads leading to the mines have become almost impassable. The weather has now turned favorably, but cannot be depended upon. Ore haulers and some of the smelters are in misery, the former because they cannot fulfill their contracts and the latter because they have not a supply of mixing ores to cover the paucity of receipts for many days longer. Fair weather would soon set matters right but that cannot be looked for just yet, and less ore will probably be actually shipped this month than for any other since the strike. The smelting product will likewise be considerably affected.

It is only a few months since the stock of the Leadville Consolidated company, owning the Carbonate and Shamrock mines, was a drug on the market at fifty cents. It appreciated considerably during the winter and since the recent purchase of the Little Giant has advanced to more than three times its value in the fall. Its present price probably represents more nearly the real value of the property than did the former, always supposing that hereafter it is to be managed as successfully as Manager Harker is capable of doing.

The Hibernia has captured a fresh slice of good ore, which is being worked up for a stock boom in the most approved style. It is to be hoped that the ore body will prove to be very extensive, but it is to be feared that the stock manipulation will not rest on a perfectly sound basis. It is shuttlecock stock at present.

The Denver City will soon have in place the finest plant in the camp. It is expected to become a regular producer before the first of June. The ore is a good grade chloride, and if it holds out according to promise, will add very largely to the product of the camp.

The Breece Iron mine, whose product is entirely a fine quality of iron, is now outputting a hundred tons per day. The deposit is so large that it cannot be exhausted for a long time. Mr. George Summers, so well known at the Springs, is the general manager for the company. He has succeeded in making the property profitable when other men of greater pretensions, but less capacity, would have signally failed. Much good mining work is being done here by just such men as Summers, who quietly and most efficiently work for the interests of their employers, honestly and unostentatiously, rather than seek the notoriety which usually follows the lofty tumblings of the swell manager. The swell manager usually gets the big salary, and succeeds in more than covering it by his liberal stealings. He is the darling of the press and can do no ill. The race is less conspicuous here than formerly.
